The idea is to create a procedure so I can pass a variable to "MODIFY" I have already tried "EXECUTE EXECUTE" and "SELECT" The code so far: CREATE PROCEDURE [dbo].[ProcedureName] -- Add the parameters for the stored procedure here @param1 int, @param2 int, @param3 int AS BEGIN UPDATE Customers SET ClientID = @param1 WHERE ClientID = @param3 END Any help would be greatly appreciated! A: If your parameters are a set of INT: CREATE PROCEDURE [dbo].[ProcedureName] -- Add the parameters for the stored procedure here @param1 int, @param2 int, @param3 int AS BEGIN UPDATE Customers SET ClientID = @param1 WHERE ClientID = @param3 END If your parameters are a set of nvarchar (such as your ClientID): CREATE PROCEDURE [dbo].[ProcedureName] -- Add the parameters for the stored procedure here @param1 nvarchar(50), @param2 nvarchar(50), @param3 nvarchar(50) AS BEGIN UPDATE Customers

Their city-run program is making us a lot of green, we all know that. This time, I want to highlight the awesome kid's program Green For All that I saw this month with a fantastic afterschool activity. This program, which is funded by the USDA in the form of the WIC (Women, Infants, and Children Program) allows families to apply for small grant to host program events for the kids in the area. My first time going to an event sponsored by Green For All, I was pretty impressed. This particular one took place in a lovely new facility within Oakland's Westlake Elementary School. The presentation lasted for over an hour, there was a ton of awesome program activities for kids to do, and there was a really nice opportunity for some interactive fun for the kids. They specifically focused on STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math) concepts. The event featured activities that really spoke to a lot of my interests as a young woman, including activities like brushing d0c515b9f4
